Overview of the Strategic Planning Process

With new leadership firmly established, the need to look inward and update its mission statement, and a desire to chart a course for a vibrant future, Connections for the Homeless engaged Wishnick & Associates to facilitate a strategic planning process. Leading up to beginning the project, the board of directors named a task force to guide the work and make project related decisions. The task force was comprised of board members, the executive director, and two additional members of the senior management team. Connections' planning process officially kicked off in mid-February, 2017 with a task force launch meeting.

The main objective for this project was to develop a strategic plan and a corresponding implementation plan that would ensure achieving the goals and attaining the strategic vision. An important aspect of the process was broad community engagement as part of the external assessment. Stakeholder assessment activities took place between March and June 2017. Wishnick & Associates brought in a market research firm, GKS Consulting, to conduct the external stakeholder assessment phase of the project. The task force brainstormed a list of external stakeholders who were invited to participate in 1:1 interviews. GKS Consulting conducted 18 individual interviews with an array of funders and donors, civic and local government leaders, and executive leaders from other community organizations. In addition, GKS facilitated two group interviews, one with participants and the other with volunteers. At the same time, Wishnick & Associates facilitated the internal assessment activities. These included three separate SWOT/SOAR (Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, Threats, Aspirations, and Results) assessments with the board of directors, management staff, and program staff. The findings reports captured the input and highlighted the themes and trends from the external and internal stakeholder assessments.

During discussion of the stakeholder input, and centered on the desire to take a holistic approach to planning, the task force identified the following as the key strategic areas around which to create the plan:

1. Program and Services
2. Visibility and Communication
3. Financial Sustainability
4. Operations and Management
5. Governance and Leadership
6. Community Engagement

The board of directors' and management team's enduring dedication to the planning process manifested itself in their commitment to two separate full-day retreats. The first retreat, in September 2017, focused on reworking Connections' mission and reviewing the stakeholder input. As part of their leadership role in the strategic planning process, the board members on the planning task force took on a significant role as "content area experts". Each board member prepared a presentation of highlights in the stakeholder findings related to "their" strategic area. Lively discussion confirmed the strategic areas. At the second retreat, in October 2017, Connections' leadership had thoughtful, meaningful discussions that led to a captivating three-year strategic vision and attendant goals, strategies, and action steps to achieve it.

Following the retreats, Wishnick & Associates drafted the plan based on all of the input and refined it with the executive director, Betty Bogg, and then shared it with the planning task force. At a subsequent meeting, the task force went through the draft line by line to ensure full alignment of the goals, strategies, and actions. This robust discussion and revising led to this strategic plan. The final plan was then approved by the board in January 2018.
